Working at Falmouth Art Gallery is marvellous. I get to learn many museum related topics from cataloguing to hanging children's educational works and masterpieces. I am guided and work with a team of friendly staff and it is a great opportunity for me to meet many interesting people.

As my artistic career develops, I think the skills and training from Falmouth Art Gallery will come in handy, because it will enable me to take on more responsibilities like managing and curating shows for artists. Also, being an artist myself, I can use this experience to diversify and manage my creativity more effectively. I am more aware now of the variety and selection of works from public galleries to commercial ones. The training is very valuable as I am provided with hands-on experience and learn what you would rarely find in a book.
